1952 Midlander

W. B. Judd, Registrar

N. C. Beasley, Dean

Several years ago the Midlander staff abandoned the policy of dedicating the annual to individuals.

The staff this year would like to set aside this policy for the moment to recognize the outstanding contribution to two members of the administrative staff who are observing their "silver anniversary" as members of the MTSC faculty.

Dean N. C. Beasley, counselor and friend of students, has served as Dean of the College for twenty-five years. He has aided the teaching profession of Tennessee and the nation in important official positions, not the least of which has been his twenty years of consecutive service as secretary of the MTEA.

The second member of the present staff who is rounding out twenty-five years of service is Registrar W. B. Judd. For many years he served as professor of economics, and yet maintains his deep interest in the social studies.

To these faithful and friendly members of the MTSC "family" the Midlander staff extends congratulations and most cordial wishes for continued experience in the positions which each has loyally filled.

We would like to take this opportunity, also, to thank all those who had any part in making this yearbook possible. Particularly we would like to thank the Nashville Banner and its editor, Charlie Moss; and King Features Syndicate and cartoonist Mort Walker for their cooperation in making possible the use of "Bettle Bailey" in our book. "Beetle" is a comic strip character appearing daily in the Banner. His experiences as a college undergraduate and later in the Army have paralleled the experiences of many collegians.

We would also like to thank the students, faculty, photographers, engravers, printers, and the Midlander staff for their patience, hard work, and fine cooperation in producing this book.

We have enjoyed the opportunity to work and serve you in this capacity, and hope that you will enjoy this, the 1952 Midlander.

The Editors

As our little story begins, it's a pleasant morning in early June in Murfreesboro, home of Middle Tennessee State College. It has the makings of just another routine day as the merchants go about opening their stores and housewives sweep their front porches. But suddenly the stillness over the sleepy little town is broken by . . . .

Yep, folks, it's Beetle Bailey.

Beetle has been a student at MTSC four years now and the time has come for him to graduate. Naturally, proud Mr. and Mrs. Bailey have come to see their little boy receive his diploma. They have just arrived at the railway station and Beetle is meeting them . . . .

"I sure am glad you folks could make it down for graduation, I just can't wait to show you around the campus. I bet you won't be able to recognize the place, it has grown so much since you went to school here. You probably will find it easy to get lost in Murfreesboro, too, it has expanded so much. I read the other day where there are over six square miles inside the city limits, and there are over 15,000 people living here.

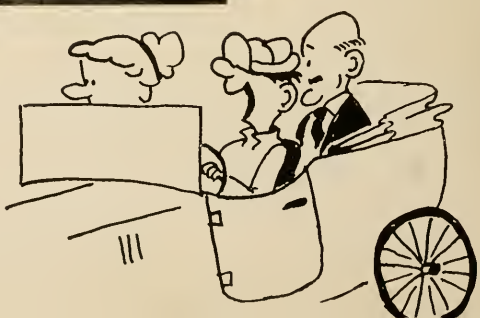
"I guess you know that Middle Tennessee is one of five state colleges in Tennessee. It is one of the smallest, with an enrollment of about 1,200, but it's the best. Besides, it's plenty big enough for me, what with 15 permanent brick buildings and two more already approved by the State Board of Education. Besides these, there are several concrete block and frame buildings on the campus. All this, along with the farm, airport, football stadium, baseball field, tennis courts, etc., pretty well fill the 375 acres in the campus.



"Well folks, here we are at last. Welcome to MTSC. I've spent four happy years here and am sorry the time for leaving has come so soon after all. I came here in juvenile greenness as a Freshman—now I have new hopes, higher ideals and, I believe, greater opportunity for the future.

"See, right up there between the Student Union and Rutledge? That's the Administration Building. I can hardly wait to begin our little tour of the campus with you."

Q. M. Smith, President

And Here Are

DEAN BEASLEY

"Mr. N. C. Beasley, known to all of us as 'the Dean,' received his B.S. and M.A. degrees and did graduate student work at George Peabody College for Teachers. He formerly taught education here and is now the guiding force in his capacity as Dean of the college.

. . and DEAN JAMES

"Mr. Clayton L. James, the Dean of Students, received two years of his education at David Lipscomb College, received his A.B. degree from Union University, his M.S. degree from the University of Tennessee, and was a graduate student at Columbia University. He takes care of all the little problems that may arise with the students while they are living here on the campus.

Responsible For Our PROGRESS

"Have I told you about the progress of this college since Q. M. Smith became president? Well, when the college first opened its doors, Mr. Smith was a student here. In 1939, he returned, as an alumnus, to fill the office of president. Immediately he initiated a program of expansion in both enrollment of pupils and in the physical plant. During his years of service, the school faculty has grown from 40 to 92 members, and the enrollment today has leveled off at about 1200 students each quarter including the graduate students. And this is spectacular—the college has increased its annual operational budget from $150,000 to about $750,000. Also, the actual acreage of the campus has grown from 125 to 325 acres, including additions to the college farm. Today the college offers not only the standard Bachelor of Science, but also the Bachelor of Arts and the Master of Arts degree.

"Now this is the part that observers always thought possible but not probable. The new buildings added during President Smith's administration are: four units of the Industrial Arts Department, the Memorial Health and Physical Education Building, the Natatorium, the new stadium and track, the Agricultural Center of three units, the Student Union Building, the new boy's dormitory, and plans for a new girl's dormitory and library have been approved by the state. In addition to these major improvements, over one hundred housing units were erected as part of the post ware development for veterans, the ROTC Armory has been established, and numerous shop and farm buildings have sprung up.

"Our hats are off to Mr. Smith, a president of whom each one of us is proud. We are all indeed grateful for the work that he has done to make our college a better place in which to learn, relax, and enjoy these, our last years of youth. One thing sure, MTSC has grown and grown in the eyes of critics evaluating educational institutions, and Mr. Smith has been the man who stood behind the growth and stimulated its progress.

The BURSAR

Takes Care of Our Money

"Mr. T. B. Woodmore serves us in the capacity of Bursar and exercises his good judgment in the channeling of funds for one function or another. He is the man we meet during registration day—the last lap of a hectic race, and he is the man through whom all requisitions pass. Mr. Woodmore also serves on the student employment and publications committees.

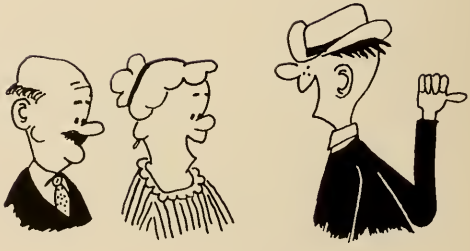
and The REGISTRAR

Records Our Grades

"Mr. William B. Judd, the Registrar, graduated from our own school when it was called State Teachers College. His Master of Arts degree was received from Peabody College. In his capacity here he has the unsung hero's position of recording grades and credits of the whole student body and also of notifying them of their academic standing. With the aid of his office staff, he does an outstanding job. Mr. Judd has been with us here at MTSC since 1927.

W. B. Judd

"Now let's take a tour through the buildings and along the pathways of the campus. The center of activity is the Administration Building, built in 1911 when the college was first founded. It has since been used as the main housing for all our classes and the majority of our outside activities. Then too, it is the home of all the offices with which each student becomes familiar early in his school career. The offices of the president, the deans, the registrar, and the bursar are all found here.



The

ADMINISTRATION BUILDING

is the Center of Activity

The Main Thing at MTSC is

EDUCATION

"Remember, folks, that this school is primarily noted for the quantity and quality of teachers it graduates each year. That's right—when you were here it was called Middle Tennessee Normal and then later, Middle Tennessee State Teachers College. Well, it still upholds its traditionally fine Education Department. Its primary aim is to produce teachers, both secondary and elementary. Just think, ninety per cent of the graduating class here qualify for teaching certificates and we think all of them are outstanding after being instructed by the department's capable faculty.

"The department is concerned with the selection, guidance, general education, and professional growth of those in residence and in service. One particularly unique factor concerning the department, in addition to the Training School, is the agreement between the college and the local high school. We benefit so much by being able to do our secondary practice teaching in an actual situation. Not only that, but the regular teachers at the high school give us the benefit of their extensive experience.

"The department faculty consists of nine carefully chosen, experienced, and well trained instructors. They are in the picture below, reading from left to right: Dr. Joe F. Wilkes, Dr. Wilmoth Bowdin, Dr. S. Belt Keathly, Dr. Howard Kirksey, Miss Mary Hall, Mr. N. C. Beasley, Dr. Ralph Dunham, Mr. Roy Simpson, and Mr. Robert Adkins.

"These faculty members are always willing to give whatever help may be needed by the students, as is pointed out in the above snapshot.

With Opportunities in The

SOCIAL STUDIES

"And now, folks, we come to the Social Science Department which is one of the largest. When you were here it was called the History Department, wasn't it? That was in 1911, too, and since then the other courses such as geography, history, political science, economics, and sociology have all been added to give the department its present name of Social Science.

"In 1922, Dr. Sims came here to become head of the department and has remained in that position ever since. The offerings of the department are flexible to fit the needs of individuals who take these courses. Those who are especially interested in this field may obtain both a major and minor. It is also possible to take all the required number of hours for a major in one subject, such as history.

"In addition to training teachers in the social studies, the department has many majors who later work in government service, in law, and related fields.

"These teachers, too, give unselfishly of their time in helping students. In the picture here, Dr. Sims is helping a student find historical locations in Tennessee.

Reading, Writing and Speaking are Contributions of the LANGUAGE ARTS

"Now we come to a department through which every one of us must pass sometime during our college life. It is the Department of Languages. In order to meet requirements for a degree, be it B.S. or B.A., we must complete eighteen hours of English. If we choose the B.A. we must also complete at least eighteen hours in the field of modern languages. Both of the above requirements are institutional and are not, as some students suppose, departmental.

"The hardy souls who choose to major in English must present a minimum of forty-five hours in the field and pass written and oral comprehensive examinations during the last quarter of their senior year. The purpose of the examinations is to encourage the students to look upon the courses they take during their four years in college not as ends themselves but as means to an end, a satisfactory competency in the fields of English and American literature.

"It has been said that the person who is familiar with but one language is like a bird with one wing. The Department of Languages presents to all students the opportunity to soar as high as they please by offering complete courses in the language and literature of both Spain and France.

"The Department of Languages also offers courses in journalism. In these courses, theory is combined with practice, and the result is the school paper, The Sidelines and the yearbook, The Midlander.

"The Department of Languages is one of the six departments offering a minor in the Graduate Division. The courses offered on the graduate level are primarily designed to promote even better teaching in the secondary schools of Tennessee.

"In the top picture, Miss Schardt is shown using recordings in her Spanish class. In the second picture, Lane Boutwell, speech arts director, and some students record a radio program.

MATHEMATICS

Trains the Mind

"Here's one department that has been here since the proverbial portals were opened in 1911. P. A. Lyon, who was later president of the college, was the very first professor of mathematics that the college boasted. He stayed with the department for ten years and then was replaced by Horace G. Jones, who is head of the mathematics department today. Miss Tommie Reynolds has been teaching in the math department since 1911, with the exception of one year when she obtained a leave of absence to earn her masters degree from Peabody.

"MTSC is not behind in anything, for the average four year math program which is available at most other colleges is also offered here. In addition to this, we offer a year of surveying and one methods course in the teaching of mathematics. Our professors don't rest a minute. These two wonders also teach a year of special business math designed to accommodate the business major here at the "Finest".

"At the right are Mr. Jones and 'Miss Tommie."

ART Trains the Hand

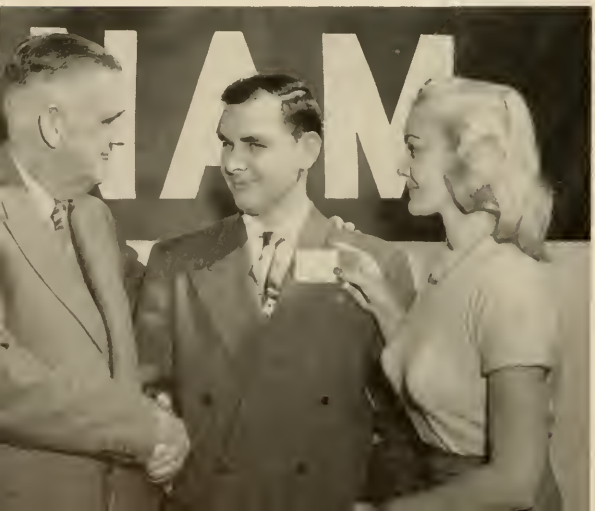
"This room is the most decorative in the building and could belong to none other than the art department. Here we find a collection of all kinds of art, ranging from clay modeling and paintings to hand crafts produced by the students. If a person has any creative ability, Miss Hester Rogers, sole instructor in this department, will find and develop it in the many projects she assigns. Miss Rogers adds lustre to her courses by offering her rich background of information and picture slides of her tours abroad.

We Learn all About

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

"Let's just walk past these rooms and see if you can guess what department this is. The first room emits a tapping sound; in the second, we see wide-eyed and frightened students over rectangular pads; the third finds a conglomeration of machines (who knows the use of these mechanical monsters?), and the last is a mass of numbers under which we see a few students. Yep, you've guessed, that's the Business Administration Department which joined the ranks of MTSC way back in 1939. It was then a division of the Social Science Department. With the addition of advanced stenography, business law, methods and materials in accounting, methods and materials in stenography, advanced accounting, advertising, auditing, and business education courses, it has finally come into its own. The divisions of Accounting, Secretarial Science, Business Education, and Business Law combined in 1945 and in the following year, the name of the department was changed to its present moniker, the Business Administration Department.

"Just in case I have entirely confused you, I will identify the first revealed sights. The first was the typing room, the second stenographic room, next the office machines room (pictured above), and finally, the accounting room.



"The department now offers to majors, Business Administration and Secretarial Science, and Teacher-Training. Its graduates are certified to teach any business subject offered in the secondary schools of the state, are prepared for responsible business positions, and will be capable of managing and operating a business of their own.

"The faculty includes Mr. E. W. Midgett, Mrs. Henrietta Myers Wade, and Mr. Ed Knapp (second picture). If you can take your eyes off the pretty girl down here in the corner long enough to look at the boy in the middle, he is Burt Spurlock, receiving congratulations from the National Association of Manufacturers for being chosen by the Tennessee Manufacturers Association as the outstanding career prospect in the field of Business Administration in Tennessee colleges. This is certainly indicative of the type of students our 'Bus Ad' department turns out.

The GRADUATE DIVISION provides broader opportunities

"We're so very excited and proud of our brand new baby, the Graduate Department. We have been struggling to form this division for what seems like an eternity of time and it is finally here. Walk past Room 17 in the basement and you will see the beaming faces of its founders and head—we're almost ready to hand out cigars. In fact, we might do just that in August during the recently revived August graduation program, designed especially to accommodate the first group of students to graduate from Middle Tennessee State College with their Masters degree. Isn't that exciting?

"The graduate students receive a major in Education and they may minor in any of the following fields: English, Social Science, Industrial Arts, Science, and Physical Education. That's quite a broad program for the first year of existence even if I must boast about my own alma mater.

"Dr. Howard G. Kirksey is head of the Graduate Department. He is a well-qualified leader, having received his doctorate just a few years ago. He is conservatively enthusiastic about all of the modern philosophies and methods of education. All of the departments mentioned above have included new 500 courses in their curriculum designed to meet the needs of the graduate students, and the education courses, too, have been broadened. Most of the courses are held in the seminar style and the students, many of them in-service teachers, benefit not only from their instructors, but also from each other.

"The picture below is of the Graduate Council and reads from left to right: first row: Dr. Howard Kirksey, Chairman, Education; Mr. Q. M. Smith, President; Mr. W. B. Judd, Registrar; Dr. J. Eldred Wiser, Chemistry; second row: Dr. Richard C. Peck, English; Mr. Otis L. Freeman, Industrial Arts; Dr. C. C. Sims, Social Science; Dr. Francis Reil, Physical Education; Mr. N. C. Beasley, Dean.

"In the picture at the lower right hand corner, we see Dr. Kirksey signing the registration cards of the first students who enrolled in the Graduate Department of "ye ole college" last summer.

The LIBRARY Stimulates Study

"That building in the middle of the campus is one which all of us haunt at one time or another, particularly at the end of the quarter when term papers and reports are due. Along with obtaining information, which I'll tell you about in a minute, a lot of us seek refuge in the library from the clatter and chatter of the dormitories. Then too, if we are ever in dire need of assistance with our research work, Miss Catherine Clark, Mr. Ambrose Easterly and fourteen student assistants are there able and willing to aid us.

"Now for some vital statistics. The library harbors over thirty-eight thousand books including government documents and bound periodicals. The latest news may also be read from the varied and numerous newspapers to which the library subscribes. Along with this essential material, the library has begun a collection of audio-visual materials and has over two hundred magazines to which the students have access.

"Shall we take a quick trip through the building? I'll point out the location of things. Here on the main floor, is the Tennessee Room in which you will find histories and biographies of Tennessee and its heroes. All these shelves back here are the home of the bulk of the books with which we work, systematized and listed in the card catalogue over there by the door. Down these stairs is the periodical room and another nook where all of the text books used in the grammar and high schools of Tennessee are shelved. Off to the left is the headquarters of the Regional library which serves eight counties under supervision of Miss Mary Nelson Bates (below, right) and her assistant, Miss Mary Elizabeth Wallace.

"New books are constantly being ordered. Since the graduate division has been incorporated in the MTSC program, the place has been swarming with new shelves and books to go on them. A new library has been planned and approved. It will be located between Jones Hall and the Science Building.

The

SCIENCE BUILDING

Stimulates

Research

"And this first building we come to that is set apart from the rest is the Science Building, constructed in 1931. Those peculiar odors you smell now unquestionably are a part of this building. No stranger aroma will you ever come in contact with than the combination of cooking food, formaldehyde, and many chemicals with which experiments are being made. You see, this building houses the departments of chemistry, home economics, biology, and physics, making it always full to the brim of industrious people laboring over their own special problems.

CHEMISTRY . .

"Let's take a quick excursion through the chemistry department, now housed in the basement. The importance of this department could be measured by the record of the graduates who have majored in chemistry. Many of those graduates in the past have received scholarships and fellowships to outstanding universities in the nation. Some have been employed in the laboratories of Oak Ridge, DuPont, Tennessee Eastman, and other places.

"Here on your right is the chemistry faculty. The head of the department is Dr. J. E. Wiser (seated), and the assistant professor is C. F. Hull. Among the most important objectives of chemistry students are to prepare themselves for high school teachers, as chemists for industry, and to do graduate work in this field. Many others take chemistry as requirements for pre-dental, pre-med, pre-engineering, pre-nursing, and pre-pharmacy. In addition to the excellent physical plant, advanced students have access to the use of special equipment such as the Beckman Spectrophotometer, Photoelectric Calorimeter, and Able Refractometer.

"Down here in the corner are students at work in the Freshman lab.

For the Professions or Industry

BIOLOGY . .

"The third floor is occupied by the Biology Department, where every freshman is given something of his very own to love, cherish, and work on . . . . . a frog. This department offers for the student some of the most interesting courses available. In biology a student learns by studying living material. For learning activities this department is well equipped for its work by providing adequate rooms for research, laboratory experiments, and rooms where individual study may be carried on. There are also complete offices for each instructor, and the department's museum, which contains various items that form a unique collection and contribute to the overall learning opportunity of the student.

"Both majors and minors may be secured in biology with the required hours being spent in general courses and specialized study in embryology, field zoology, and field botany.

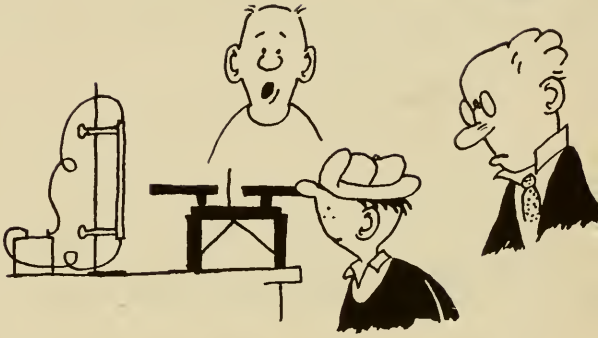
PHYSICS . .

"Down here all mixed up with the Chemistry Department is the physics lab—and believe me, don't think I didn't sweat out many long hours in there! We learned—or at least were supposed to have learned—everything from how to measure the amount of heat that a ton of coal will give off when burned, to how to wire up a radio. And of course there was some simple stuff, like how the atom bomb works and how to measure the speed of light.

"Douglas Shields is our physics teacher. Not many students hang around for the second and third year courses, but those who do really know something about what makes this world of ours go 'round. Hundreds of dollars are tied up in such equipment as the bomb calorimeter and the spectrophotometer, and all of it gets a thorough workout every year.

"In the freshman labs all the students work on the same experiments, but in the advanced courses, each student is assigned a different set of experiments at the beginning of the quarter and at the end he has to report to the rest of the class on the work he has done.



HOME EC . .

"Here's Home Economics. Both boys and girls enjoy this department, but the girls are the ones who write back after they leave MTSC and tell us what their home economics means to them in everyday life. From the teachers come word of the success they have had in putting on a fashion show and the progress of their students. Many of the graduates do extension work which is a job of rich and satisfying experiences. Some become nutritionists, food chemists, dieticians, or just plain housewives. The husband of the housewife probably appreciates the department more than anyone. You can't forget about sewing either, which comes in mighty handy when the boys need the stripes sewn on their ROTC uniforms.

"A B.S. degree is received at graduation time upon completing this major. The competent women who manage and teach this department are Mrs. Virginia Muncie, Miss Agnes Nelson, and Mrs. Mary Knapp. This beautiful lobby is a part of their careful planning and attention.

"By the way, in that class we just passed the girls were studying deep fat frying. Above are the instructors in the Home Ec department: Mrs. Mary G. Knapp, Miss Myrtle Agnes Nelson, and Miss Virginia Muncie.

For Aesthetic Development . . . MUSIC

"Hear those vibrant strains of melody pouring forth from that alcove back there? Just listen. And they're amateurs too! It's a well known fact that our music department is one of the best and can hold its own among schools of comparable size anywhere. We always tease the music students about burying themselves in their own little wing, but we all know that in order to produce the finished performances that they give, many hours of practice are essential.

"They're finally getting a break though, for the old cafeteria is being remodeled for their own private use. For once they'll not be squeezed in among horns and drums when they're trying to practice for their many excellent recitals. The renovated structure promises to be a haven for them, but it still won't be nearly large enough for their ever expanding enrollment. The department has really grown; in fact, it seems as if every student at one time or another takes some music course. Before a student earns his elementary certificate he must have an introductory course in the fundamentals of music.

"You'd never guess it, but I, who know little if anything about music, beat a path to that auditorium every time one of the seniors gives his recital. Fine? It's nothing but the best!

"Under the direction of Mr. Neil Wright, who is assisted by seven other faculty members, students receive private lessons, class instruction, have band, an orchestra, and a chorus. Along with these organizations, there are the Harp Singers, the Trio, and the honorary society, Pi Mu Sigma. That's a pretty full schedule for any department and it really keeps the students and the instructors on their toes. Come to think of it, they also have a group of students who have their own dance band, the Townsmen, and how I do love to shake a leg to its haunting strains of music.

"Of course, I've been carried away with myself and the many happy hours the music department has given me, so let me continue. A major is offered in music and the department turns out a multitude of excellent music teachers and some outstanding professional musicians each year.

"One of the main products of the department is the magnificent 80-piece marching band, shown performing here at the Florence State football game.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

Provides for Creative Manual Dexterity

"This modern looking structure houses the Industrial Arts Department and one of which we are certainly proud. It is the finest any place. It comprises six unit shops and a general shop with hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of modern equipment, both big and little, that can turn out the finished products, from plastic pens to aluminum fishing boats in nothing flat.

Our Industrial Arts Department Includes . .

Almost every student visits the Industrial Arts building for one or more of its practical courses, whether it's required for their major or not. They know the value of the courses. Here's a peek at some of the divisions and what they are doing . . . . . looks interesting, doesn't it?

DRAWING . .

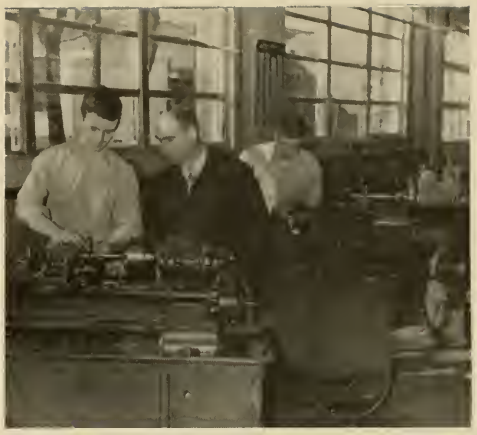
"This group is right in the middle of an important mechanical drawing problem. They do everything from machine drawing to architectural blueprints. Their stuff is professional enough to rate many of them very excellent jobs upon graduation. Mr. O. L. Freeman (right) is the center of this revolving wheel.

WOOD SHOP . .

"I don't know the name of that particular machine, folks, but those boys do, I'll bet. They may be working on anything from a lamp to a bed, but whatever it is you can bet it will be very good. By the way, the first models of an artificial satellite for the earth, now being developed at the Huntsville Arsenal, were made in our shop by a MTSC alumnus, Ross Rives, and our wood shop instructor, Mr. Phillip Dalton (right).

MACHINE SHOP . .

"Here they work in metals just like they do in wood in the other shop. It's truly a modern-day wonder to find so many interesting and worth-while articles being turned out in true form amid all the noises of hammers and machinery. Here the art of tooling metals is perfected. Supervising work at a lathe here is our instructor, Mr. Edwin Voorhies.



CRAFTS SHOP . .

"This is the crafts shop. The products turned out by the students are really of professional origin, just as clever and original as you can find. Plastics and leather are the main mediums, being turned into belts, pocketbooks, lamps, desk sets, and just about anything else you'd want. We have a new instructor in this department who came just a few months ago, Mr. James Howard Gonce.

ELECTRICITY . .

"Finally we come to electricity, which is very important in our present day living. It is practical electricity, but it includes everything from house wiring to fixing an iron cord. One student in the department is even building his own television set. The frame work of a house has actually been built in the shop and students can get on-the-spot experience in wiring procedures. Mr. John Williams is our instructor here.

Opportunity for Health and Recreation are Found in the NATATORIUM

"This building is the newest one on the campus. Isn't it attractive? It is the Natatorium, but most kids don't know what all that big word means, or else its' such a mouthful they just call it the swimming pool, for that's really what it is. I can safely say that this is a well used building, supplying both instruction and just plain fun and recreation. This is one of the best pools in any school of the South, and we are certainly proud of it. It is another milestone on the road to making MTSC 'The Best!'

and the ALUMNI MEMORIAL GYMNASUIM

"This building adjacent to the Natatorium is the new gym which is correctly referred to as the Alumni Memorial Health and Physical Education Building. See what a nice large playing floor we have; one of the best hardwoods in any gym around here. The seating capacity is about 5,000. The roll-away bleachers, when pushed back, give additional space for the playing of many other games, such as hand tennis, badminton, and volleyball. That's the reason for all the lines on the floor. Two games of basketball can be played at the same time also. The stage is a new addition and very beneficial to the building. Underneath this floor, we have the ROTC department and the many dressing rooms and showers. Out here in the lobby, you may refresh yourself with popcorn, candy, ice cream, and cold drinks during half time at the basketball games. The coaches have their respective offices on this floor also. There are several classrooms on this floor and on the top floor where the health classes are held. We are very fortunate in having such a splendid building to honor the graduates of this school who gave their lives for us.

The

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Department Builds Our Bodies

"Take a deep breath, now hold it—down, up, one, two, three, four . . . . . guess what? This is the department that is responsible for building up what few muscles I have managed to accumulate. No, I'm not a physical education major, but under the state law every student is required to take six quarters of the muscle building courses. It isn't a hardship, though, for the well organized department offers such practical courses as golf, bowling, tennis, volleyball, basketball, badminton, and a multitude of others.

Now that we're through with those who take only six hours, let me show you some of the possibilities for students who major in this field. This department offers scholarships to those with unusual ability for participation in football and basketball; that's the reason we always have such fine teams and fine spirit instilled by the coaches. There are courses offered in theory as well as in practice for those majors who desire to teach.

Also, a very fitting and worthwhile division of the physical education department is that known as the health courses. To be true and exact, we should refer to this as the health, recreation, and physical education department, for it is certainly a balanced combination. The courses in health are required for an elementary certificate and are something that each student needs to have under his lid just in case.

The capable directors are: Charles N. Greer, Charles M. Murphy, Elbert Patty, Joe Black Hayes, Francis J. Riel, Buleah Davis.

These persons have the responsibility of instructing us in the classroom and in developing our abilities to participate in inter-collegiate sports. They have aroused a great deal of interest in the intra-mural sports program, as is evidenced by the students studying the scoreboard in the above picture.

For Our Nation's Safety

MILITARY SCIENCE

"'Hup, Hite, Hup, Hite, left, right, left, right. Can't you keep in step? It's just like walking. Put one foot in front of the other and step out with a thirty-inch step. You have walked before, haven't you?' . . . . . 'All right men, this is a gun and out in the field it'll be your best friend. You've got to take care of it, that is if you want to live long after you get there.'

"Well, folks, I guess that by now you realize that you are getting near the stomping grounds of the ROTC Unit of MTSC. Yep, this is our contribution to national defense. See that boy trying to clean his rifle over there? (top picture) That and weekly uniform inspection are as sure as the proverbial "death and taxes" around here.

"All sorts of training aids are used, one being the sand table shown here, where problems are set up and the solution worked out by the cadets. The ROTC Unit has for its use half the basement of the new gymnasium and physical education building. There are several offices and the armory on one side of the building. The rest of the space is taken up by the rifle range, instructional areas, classrooms and storage rooms. The Unit also has for its use another building on the campus where it houses its tanks and other training devices.

"Our Corps is one of fifteen Armored ROTC outfits in the United States. There are now over two-hundred and fifty cadets in the ranks of the battallion. Each year Advanced Course cadets go to Fort Knox, Kentucky, for six weeks of training. From what I've heard it's really no tea party. Last summer our boys were unofficially rated as second out of all the units represented. This is part of the four years of work which each cadet must complete to receive his Second Lieutenant's commission in the Reserve. But all's not work. The Unit has one of the best clubs on the campus. The Track and Sabre Club is made up only of boys in the ROTC.

For A More Abundant Farm Life

The AGRICULTURE CENTER

"Watch your step there!! This is the section of the college dedicated to the future agricultural wizards of the state. Immediately after the war, expansion of the Agricultural Department was authorized. Some of the war surplus buildings from Camp Forrest were secured and an agriculture center was developed on the edge of the campus nearest the farm. This center consists of three buildings; one with three class rooms, store rooms, and offices; a wood working shop, well equipped for farm wood working; and a metal working shop equipped for blacksmith work and general repair and maintenance of all types of farm machinery and equipment. The center is located adjacent to the farm so that the farm may serve as a laboratory for many phases of the agriculture work.

"This year, President Q. M. Smith gave the Agriculture Department the responsibility of planning the entire program of the farm which is in keeping with the practice of most colleges and universities where a farm is operated in connection with the school. It gives a better opportunity for the farm to serve as a laboratory for many of the classes taught in the department and the classroom teaching and the farm work can be much more closely co-ordinated. Since 1949, the staff has been built up from two to four members.

"Not only does the department train the students to be good farmers, but also prepares them for work with the agricultural services such as FHA and Soil Conservation, and gives them a foundation for graduate study in agriculture.

"Shown above is a view of the agriculture center. Below (left) the agriculture staff is shown at a hog judging contest held here for high school students a few months ago. Left to right are: Dr. Clifford Stark, Mr. James N. Jaggers, Mr. B. B. Gracy, Jr., and Mr. Joe P. Little. Below (right), ag students check on the progress of chicks brooding under infra-red heat lamps in an experiment conducted here this spring.

We Learn by Doing at the

TRAINING SCHOOL

"This building over here across the boulevard is indeed connected with the college. In fact, I doubt whether I could stress its importance enough. This is the Training School where MTSC students majoring in education have an opportunity to do their practice teaching under very capable and helpful instructors. I guess we don't realize just how important this chance for supervised teaching really is. It presents appropriate opportunities for us to put to use what we have learned. The Training School maintains very high educational standards and inspires us as future teachers to higher ideals and goals. In this environment we have a perfect opportunity for studying children in a natural situation. It is what we actually accomplish here that to a great extent determines what kind of teachers we make in the future. Our very best effort is the least we can do.

"You can peek into some of the classrooms as we walk down the hall and see the neat, orderly rooms. There's a student doing his practice teaching now. We can go in if you like because they are quite accustomed to having visitors and I know you will certainly enjoy it.

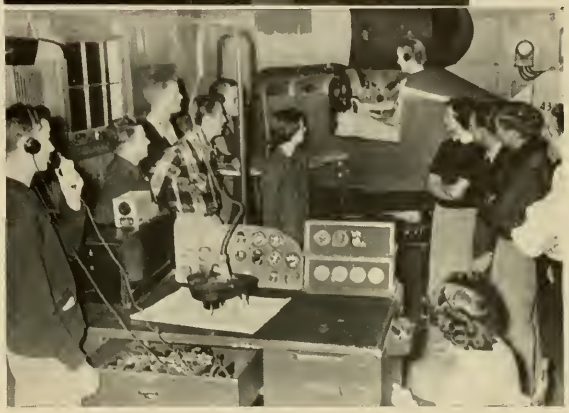
"The faculty here includes (below): Mrs. Lizzie Street Nelson, Music; Mr. George Kuhnert, Music; Miss Ann Ashley, Fifth Grade; Miss Margaret Lowe, Seventh Grade; Mrs. Sewell Manley, First Grade; Mrs. Jow Howell Wood, Dietitian; Mrs. Lea Kuhnert, Librarian; Mr. Joe F. Wilkes, Co-Ordinator of Student Teachers; Miss Mary Francis Snell, English; Miss Marguerite Harrison, Third Grade; Miss Mary Belle Jordon, Second Grade; Mrs. Madge Manson, Art; Mrs. Edward Briney, Sixth Grade; Mr. Lewis Bandy, Science; Miss Katherine Kerr, Music; Miss Helen Trivett, Music; Mr. Roy J. Simpson, Principal.

For Business or Pleasure

AVIATION

"Up, up, and away! Boy, how I'd love to be up there with them. Didn't you know that we had our own airport? Gosh, yes! And we also have an instructor that's nothing but fine—Mr. Miller Lanier. Just hear this, we're one of the very few colleges in the country which has its own airfield. Through the extensive training which the students receive, they are able to obtain their commercial and instructors ratings. During the past four years, four students have completed the entire course and become instructors. Along with actual flying instruction, students are able to obtain technical instruction in navigation, radio, meteorology, and many other phases of aviation.

"Mr. Lanier is in there at his desk. Out here some of the students are working with a Link trainer.



For Healthful Living The INFIRMARY

Ouch! Help! Take it easy! Please take it easy with that needle, I'm allergic to the things. Honest folks, I couldn't be under any better medical care if I were at home with you, so don't ever worry about me being sick. Mrs. Clifford Byrne is our nurse here and she really knows what it's all about. If there's any doubt about the seriousness of the illness, she immediately refers us to Dr. William Shacklett who makes us well in a hurry. Remember the disaster we had last summer when the infirmary burned? Well, we now have a new location and a larger building. The old student recreation center has been converted into an apartment for the nurse and an office for Dr. Shacklett along with the regular wards and private rooms.

EXTENSION SERVICES

Aid Our Area . . .

"Now all of the unsung heroes are not on the battlefield, for we hold claim to our own little group—the Extension Service under the direction of Mr. Bob Abernathy.

"This group of the faculty takes a portion of their precious and rare off-regular-hour duty time and devotes it to traveling to outlying towns and conducting workshops or extension courses. Then too, they sponsor a trip each summer to the west coast or other points (above, left) which is of an educational nature and open to all students who wish to travel and see some of the many sights of interest which their native country offers them. Members of the faculty accompany them and give instruction along the way. What a pleasant way to learn!

"Another feature of this service is the invitations which are sent to all the high schools in Middle Tennessee to come to our college and witness first hand some of our athletic events or the plays which are presented each quarter by the Dramatic organization. These are only a few of the many services rendered by the Extension Service and for these we are eternally grateful.

ROBERT ABERNATHY
Director Extension Services

. . . and Improve Our Schools

"For many years Middle Tennessee State College has cooperated with the State Department of Education in maintaining offices and headquarters for the assistant supervisors of schools for the Middle Tennessee area. Several of these, including Miss Mary Hall, Dr. Howard Kirksey, and Dean Clayton James, have moved on to become members of the MTSC faculty.

"At the present time, Mr. Ronald Binkley and Miss Mary Florence Betts are serving the schools of the region. Their secretary (standing) is Ann Winfrey.

The STUDENT UNION BUILDING

Center of Social Activities

"Now folks, we come to the newest addition to the old college campus which still has all of us gazing in wide-eyed wonder. It's the Student Union Building which was completed and opened its doors to feed breakfast to the hungry throng on February 4. Just look how the architects and contractors have managed to blend it in with the architectural design already on the campus, and yet have given it such a modern touch. The rooms are all spacious, well ventilated, equipped with all of the latest gadgets, and tastefully furnished. The interior decorating is really something to notice, for it shows the excellent coordination between the various departments here. The maintenance department chose the furniture style and color; the industrial arts department designed and made the modernistic electric fixtures to harmonize with the overall design.

"You probably noticed that the building is centrally located so that it is easily accessible to students in all of the dormitories. And another nice thing, the back of it is nearly as attractive as the main entrance.

"Come with me, folks, while I take you on a quick tour of the building. We'll enter through this side door and first investigate the dearest thing to our hearts, the cafeteria. You noticed, of course, the large comfortable lounge we just passed through. We do love that as you can witness by the number of students always there. We are particularly proud of the tiled walls which always give freshly-scrubbed appearance. Across from the cafeteria is the college bookstore which handles everything essential to a student's needs and even more, to satisfy our still youthful whims. Now up these stairs and through another lounge into our first, authentic ballroom. Nothing could be prettier or more welcome to any of us. All these little rooms you see on either side of the hallway are destined to be offices for some of the faculty members. Down at this end is the general hang-out for all—the lunchroom. The last floor is divided into banquet halls of various sizes to meet the needs of all organizations wishing to use them.

The BOOK STORE . . .

Where We Buy Our Supplies

"Now comes the hot spot for most students—it's the College Bookstore which handles everything from the proverbial soup to nuts. Seriously, under the management of Mr. Charles Phillips it does a more than adequate job of fulfilling all the needs of the students both intellectual and whimsical. The latter is what most interests us and includes all of the latest magazines, jewelry with the college insignia, and cards ranging from index to happy birthday. This is where I found the small shirt with MTSC printed on the front to send to Baby Bailey. Of course, one little item I did leave out, the book store primarily handles the text books for all of our courses.

"Before we leave, you must meet the two women who are the bulwarks of the bookstore, Gladys Smartt and Emily Runion. There were many times when, without their assistance, we would have gotten lost in the pre-registration day shuffle.

The POST OFFICE . . .

Where We Receive Our Mail

"Along about nine o'clock in the morning it's a fight for your life to even come close to the post office. Of course, I don't have too many worries along that line—that's a hint folks, to remember poor little ole Beetle far away from home, so lonesome for news from you all. Miss Iree McElroy does a splendid job of getting our letters to us and how she does it I'll never know. Happy are the days when she slips a little white piece of paper in our boxes that means a box of food or some clothes from home. Once in a while, we find a notice from the library reminding us of an over-due book, or another little notice reminding us that our box rent is due. Most of all, I like to receive letters from you, so please write.

The CAFETERIA . . .

Where We Eat Our Meals

"Ringgggggggggg! No, it's not a fire, superman, or an atomic invasion, but only lunch hour; and we become human jets trying to get first place in line when Mrs. Mary Knapp, our college dietitian, opens the cafeteria doors. We all want to be sure that our energy is re-fortified after several hours of lectures. Our biggest thrill came when this new Student Union Building was opened and the cafeteria was moved into the first floor. The new atmosphere makes the food taste better. Naturally we're not as appreciative as we should be of the many and very modern conveniences and equipment that have been installed. Among these is the large freezer making it possible for the cafeteria to serve frozen vegetables in great quantity. Then there's the automatic potato peeler, which the former KP's appreciate, and so many other gadgets that I couldn't begin to name them all.

The COLLEGIATE . . . Where We Spend Our Leisure

"I saved the best till last. Now you are about to enter the student sanctuary, more correctly called the Collegiate. As a point of interest, that name was selected by majority vote of the students. For the most part, it is run by the students themselves with Mrs. Myrtle Bennett and Mrs. Ray Smotherman, as co-supervisors. This is the center for all get togethers before, between, after, and all too often, during classes. There isn't anything in the line of short orders that these boys can't whip up in a matter of minutes. Don't get the idea that we exclude the faculty, for many of them enjoy this haven as much as we do. The Collegiate, too, is one of the main means for establishing good student-faculty relations. This is one place that we simply could not do without.

JONES HALL

"And this is the dorm for freshman girls. This year, for the first time in the history of the college, female voices were heard echoing throughout the corridors of this dorm. See, this was the boys' dormitory until this past fall. The girls just moved in after the new boys' dormitory was completed last summer.

"As you can see it is located right in the center of the campus, and is indeed the center of attraction. Mrs. Will Dunn Smith is charged with keeping peace and order in the house.

"There are more than one hundred freshmen over here, and they boast of their quaint lobby and the new furniture they have. Even though they were teased a little back in the fall, they say they are the envy of all, having brand new furniture, and a beautiful front yard! The upperclassmen can't deny that. Of course, next fall they will all move to Rutledge and Lyon, and new freshmen will occupy these rooms. Hurry, hurry, I've got more to show you . . . come on . . .

MEN'S DORMITORY

"Cast your eyes before the most exquisite of all. This is where the 'elite meet.' This is the new men's dormitory. This is where I spent many, many hours studying, sleeping, and loafing. Mostly studying, of course!

"Over here we have a television set, bought by the boys. Each of us contributed a small amount of that long green stuff you sent me occasionally . . . What? O.K. More than occasionally . . . What? O.K. every week . . . Well, any way we all contributed and bought us a TV set. Now we can see the World Series right in the lobby. Sometimes the girls are allowed to come over and watch also. On these nights all the guys get slicked up—to watch TV, of course.

"The only complaint we have is that we are so far away from the other buildings on the campus. We realize that exercise is good for us, so little do we complain. Besides, now that we have the new Student Union Building, it isn't so bad. Ed Knapp is our "house mother" over here.

LYON HALL

"And here, before your eyes is not a mansion, but Lyon Hall. These gals over here have an advantage over the rest of us. They are right next to the Student Union building, and they are always first in line at the cafeteria.

"There are about one hundred and twenty girls over here, and most of them have extra good tans. You would think they have all been to Florida. They have a private, secluded spot all their own where they take sun baths. Boys enjoy the lobby here and many times the girls entertain with a dance right in the lobby. They just round up a record player, about ten decks of cards, and invite all to attend.

"Lyon Hall is named for the second president of the college, Dr. P. A. Lyon. Mrs. Jesse D. Sullivan is the house mother at present. There she is now! Oops, she is correcting one of the girls for making noise during quiet hour. Guess we better be moving on.

RUTLEDGE HALL

"See, Mom and Pop, this first dormitory as we approach the main entrance to the campus? This is Rutledge Hall. Rutledge is the oldest girl's dorm on the campus. There are about one hundred girls here, and its name is in honor of Mrs. Elma Rutledge, who served as hostess for many, many years.

"Rutledge girls boast of their lobby, with the two spacious living rooms. The boys gang over here at the piano, and also take advantage of the coke room to play cards . . . . . canasta and bridge are favorites.

"Another favorite spot 'round Rutledge is 'neath the huge tree in the front yard. This is a lounging spot on a pretty day. Well, look there now! There's a couple seated under the tree talking to Mrs. Frances Pitts, the house mother.

"You notice the building is three stories high with classic columns enclosing the main entrance. The boys standing on the steps are waiting for four o'clock to come. That's when they can go in the dorm in the afternoon . . . . Oh, well, come on, folks, we got lots more to see yet!

GIRLS' DORMITORY COUNCIL

"These young ladies, who are representatives from each of the classes, compose the women's dormitory council. They act as sort of a jury at the trial of their sisters who slipped up and got caught. They can give either demerits or a 'campus.' As you can see, much responsibility rests on their fair curly heads. Shown left to right are: Billie Dean Reed, Bess Evans, Joan Holland, Fannie Wheeler, Louise Gribble, Norma Littleton, and Jean Motlow.

BOYS' DORMITORY COUNCIL

"These gentlemen are members of the men's dormitory council. Their job is to assist Mr. Knapp in keeping law and order, and sometimes we do need it, I must admit. For the most part, they make and enforce the rules of the dorm. Names of students who want to move in during the year are brought before the council, also. Left to right are: Nowlin Taylor, Ralph Osteen, Jim Lincoln, Ernest Adams, and Malcolm Rives. Absent are Ross McClain and Charlie Lyons.

HOUSE MOTHERS

"These are the 'despots,' the 'dictators,' the final authorities—who we fondly refer to as 'housemothers.' All the bad things we say about them are just in fun, for they are really swell people with a mighty big and difficult job to do. They have complete charge over their respective dormitories, and what a job it is! They make our life here on the campus as much like home life as is possible and we certainly appreciate their fine work. Left to right are: Mrs. Myrtle Sullivan, Lyon; Mrs. Evelyn Felder, Director of Dormitories; Mrs. Will Dunn Smith, Jones; and Mrs. Frances Pitts, Rutledge. Mr. Ed Knapp, 'house mother' over at our dormitory, isn't in this picture, but we met him back on page 14 in the business administration department.

Supplementing Our Services

FAMILY HOUSING, ARMORY, SHOP, . . .

"This is Vet Village where all the married people and their offspring (if they have any) live. These apartments and trailers make it possible for many to continue their education who could not have done so otherwise. It is practically a city over here within itself for they have a laundry house, grocery store, and even a mayor. We can wander down several of the streets and you can get a good idea of the size of the place.

"This building behind the apartments is the armory. It was built for and used as a hangar for a long time until the Maintenance Department took it over. They have been using it for several years, but when their new building is completed (lower picture) they will move out, and the ROTC will take over the entire building to use as an armory. You can see that we know no bounds and are forever expanding. We just hope the land holds out.

and SECRETARIES

"It sure takes a lot of people to keep the school operating. Here are some of the girls that keep all the business end of the administration in working order. In the first picture below, left to right, are: Mrs. Charlotte Heinze, Mrs. Margaret Bain, Mrs. Evelyn Turney, Mrs. Bonnie McHenry, Mrs. Carolyn Holloway, and Mrs. Epps Matthews, Jr.

"Dorothy Hoover, Mrs. Robert Dyer, and Barbara Wood are the secretaries in the second picture.

For Comfort and Cleanliness

STEAM PLANT . . .

"Without this building life on the campus in the winter would truly be miserable and practically impossible, for you see, this is the steam plant. All this machinery and equipment makes possible the heating of every building on the entire campus, and it does a thorough job of keeping us cozy in the coldest weather. Just since the war the plant was modernized and this new heating system installed.

and MAINTENANCE

"Now we come to the maintenance crews, janitors, and cafeteria workers. Without them the school probably could not operate. At the right here are those who work in the cafeteria. First row (from left) are: Anna Jones, Rachel Dunstan, Martha Brandon, Mary Lytle, Ellen Hughes, Louise Marable, and Mrs. Irene Robinson, kitchen supervisor. Second row: Willie McGowan, Grace Webb, Nelson Rankin, William Brown, John Brown, and Rollie Smith.

"The janitors in the various buildings around the campus are shown at the left below. On the first row are: Robert McHenry, Billy Haines, Walter Gaines, Jr., Benjamin Frances, George Womack, Will Robinson, Robert Watkins, Mattie Lyons, and Eva Lou Odom. Second row: Robert Bass, Willie Tiges, Martin Knox, Jr., Charlie C. Martin, Martin Knox, Fene Haines, Robert Haines, Jim Field, and Johnny Pierce.

HOMECOMING FLOAT

Organizations

Experience in Democracy Through The

ASSOCIATED STUDENT BODY

"Now folks, here is the group of students who we believe could run the United States. Of course, we're a little prejudiced, but they do a mighty fine job of enacting rules and regulations for the student body. They're generally known as the ASB which means, when translated to more formal terms, Associated Student Body.

"It claims as its purpose, the unifying of all students and organizations under one general control. These folks aid in the enacting of legislation just as the United States Congress does, and parallels the national judiciary body in the disciplinary realm. What more could any college ask for! These students dedicate a great deal of their time to making this miniature government one which is the epitome of the democratic spirit. Through this channel I know that each and every one of us will be able to understand and appreciate the national government, and our one vote in the deciding of the future will be an important and intelligent one.

"There is no better means of learning the operation of government than by actually participating in and benefiting from one modeled along the lines of democratic ideals.

"Our ASB officers are elected in a general election each year. This year's officers, shown above, are: Avola Whitesell, Secretary; Cliffodean Boyd, Vice-President; Edell Hearn, Attorney General; Harold Daniels, President; Barbara Dale, Treasurer.

This is the Judicial Branch called the

SUPREME COURT

"The ASB is composed of three divisions, the executive, the supreme court and congress. The third body operates by discussing new rules just like the committees in its big brother, the U. S. Congress; and if they decide they are beneficial improvements or changes, they enact the law. The second group mentioned, the Supreme Court, picks up at this stage and enforces the enacted laws. They also act in the administration of discipline and aid the faculty board.

"All's not in the serious vein however, for these folks also help plan our social activities and extra-curricula program. Now, Mom, I can't belong to everything on campus, and besides, the members are elected to this organization by the students. Someday I'll run and will I make a politician!

The SIDELINES

Records Our Activities

" 'Is the copy ready? How about the advertising . . . is the make-up editor ready for lay-out . . . How's the editorial page coming . . . Oh, no, we go to press at 3 P.M. today!!! That's about how it sounds in the lower corridor of the administration building on the fatal days when our pride, the SIDELINES, goes to press. The SIDELINES is under the sponsorship of Mr. Eugene Sloan. This year there have been four editors, Lucy Tucker, June Smith, Helen Warren and Bess Evans. It is published every two weeks and carries a good cross-section of actual campus and state collegiate news, student opinion, campus society, gossip (the harmless variety), collegiate jokes, alumni happenings, a column on news from other schools, and of course, the indispensable sports page.

"More than one half the support of the paper is from its advertising, thanks to the local merchants and the good work of Barbara Witham, the business manager. Just listen to the progress the paper has made, and remember we are a relatively small college. In the critical rating service, operated by the Associated Collegiate Press, the SIDELINES copped a first class honor rating and in the national critical service, operated by the Columbia University Scholastic Press Association; the SIDELINES also came in with a first class rating in the division of Teachers' Colleges of America. Try and beat that record!!

Our Honorary Society, TAU OMICRON

"'And still we gazed, and still the wonder grew, that one small head could carry all he knew'. Mr. Goldsmith seems to have expressed our sentiments completely when he wrote this, or else he foresaw our present honorary society for women. These young ladies are the epitome of a well-rounded education. They were invited to join this organization as a result of their high scholastic rating, their participation in extra curricula activities, and their outstanding character in general.

"Under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Schardt and Miss Hester Rogers, the sponsors, and Jerry Cashion, the president, the organization has endeavored to reward and inspire those chosen few. It also acts as an academic star for all of the female students to aim during their four years here at school.

"There are three regular meetings each quarter, the social, educational, and the business. The socials are usually a picnic in the fall, a formal banquet in the winter, and a luncheon for the alumni in the spring. Along with this, the alumni provide a scholarship fund for worthy students.

"Shown above are the Tau Omicron members. Reading left to right they are: First Row: Miss Elizabeth Schardt, sponsor; June Tucker, Cliffodean Boyd, Jerolyn Cashion, Barbara Dale, Jean Motlow, Miss Hester Rogers, sponsor. Second Row: Mary Jean Hay, Betty Moore, Carolyn Nicholson, Avola Whitesell, Nell Henson, Eleanor Sheid, Joan Holland, Bertha McCord, Jane Holland.

"The officers are: Jerolyn Cashion, President; Barbara Dale, Vice-President; Cliffodean Boyd, Secretary; Jean Motlow, Treasurer.

And Its Counterpart,
the SIGMA CLUB

"You've just finished viewing the honor society for women and now here is its counterpart for men. It was founded in 1925 by the late Neal Frazier and has been one of the most outstanding organizations on the campus since. The Sigma Club carries with it a life-time membership and this is obtained through qualification in the fields of leadership, scholarship, and character.

"Its faculty sponsor for many years has been Dean Clayton L. James. It is indeed an honor to be counted among its members, and, by the way folks, this is the organization for which I have been shooting. Your advice has always been a help—I'm still shooting at the moon but I'm not insisting upon it. Membership in this society is indeed the highest honor that can be awarded to us males and it also acts as an aid and inspiration in maintaining our scholastic standing and extra-curricular activities.

"Programs at its meetings are along an intellectual line. Each spring they have a banquet and during the year they have other socials. At the top of the page is a picture of their winter social.

"The Sigma Club Officers are: Glenn Lawson, President; Buford Hines, Vice-President; Walter Chapman, Secretary and Treasurer.

The SCIENCE CLUB

"And this, folks, is the Science Club, an organization on the Campus composed of students either majoring or minoring in Science. The club is also open to all students who have a special interest in Science.

"The purpose of the club is to promote an advancement in the field of Science and research.

"The club meets twice a month having business and educational programs. Programs at their meetings this year have included lectures from professors from other universities and from Oak Ridge.

"But the Science Club is not all work and business. Each quarter there is a big social for club members and their dates. Each year the Science Club sponsors 'Stunt Night,' which is given in the college auditorium.

"Members of the Science Club are pictured below. They are: First Row: Jack Gross, Celia Lyon, Johnny Haskew, Bertha McCord, Glen Wakefield. Second Row: sponsor; Joyce Calfee, Elaine Milligan, Rachel Miller, John D. Gracy, Dean Drake, Geneva Calfee, Glen Carson, Mr. John A. Patten, sponsor. Third Row: Kenneth Smith, Randolph Via, Marion Mann, Herbert Winstead, James Winfrey, Bobby Ray Carroll, James White.

"Science Club officers are: Johnny Haskew, president; Glen Wakefield, vice-president; Bertha McCord, secretary; Celia Lyon, treasurer.

. . . and the CHEMISTRY CLUB

"Here's a new one on the grounds of the 'finest,' the Chemistry Association. It was formed primarily for chemistry majors in order to unite them professionally and socially and to inspire their interest in the field of chemistry. They are not entirely one-sided however, for the reports and programs that are given by the student members not only deal with chemistry, but with related fields.

"Under the sponsorship of Dr. J. Eldred Wiser and Mr. Charles Hull, the organization promises to rise to one of equal standing with the old timers here in the extra-curricular field. The students find that by working together and discussing chemistry they may supplement their actual laboratory and classroom work and thereby better prepare themselves for their chosen profession.

"The Chemistry Association boasts the following students, shown above: First Row: Dr. J. Eldred Wiser, sponsor; Walter Bond, Jim Crawley, Boyd Gilliland, Lowell Potts, Mr. Charles Hull, sponsor. Second Row: E. J. Goslin, Sammy Woodfin, William Black, J. J. Tomlinson, Jim Johnson, John Shields, Joe Tenpenny. Third Row: Merlin Cooper, Erwin Williams, Norman Hust, Alfred Evans, Julian Fleming, Martha Ricks, Mary Killeen, Barbara Witham.

"The officers are: Lowell Potts, president; Boyd Gilliland, vice-president; Walter Bond, treasurer; Jim Crawley, secretary. Below are four chemistry majors at work in the chemistry storeroom.

The HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

"This is the Home Economics Club, Mom. You know, this is a wonderful club for any girl to belong to whether she is a Home Economics major or not. It strives to enrich the college years for the girls who are interested in better family living.

"This club meets twice a month, having business, educational, and social programs. By the way, you might be interested in knowing some of the many socials they have had this year: October 1, supper at Mrs. Muncie's; November 19, spaghetti supper; December 3, Christmas party; February 4, Valentine party; also on May 5, senior entertainment; and last but not least, May 19, style show. You ought to see some of the snazzy things these gals make . . . and the way they look in them! Wow!

"This year at their election of officers, they included some of the prettiest and most capable girls they have ever had: president, M. P. Meadows; vice-president, Jean Motlow, second vice-president, Avola Whitsell; secretary, Bertha McCord; treasurer, Nell Banks. The Scrap book is made by Geneva Calfee, Music is supplied by Betty Worsham Burgess, and Publicity is taken care of by Billie Dean Reed.

"The club elected Miss Bertha McCord as Miss Home Economics, and that's some honor. Each year delegates are sent to the Southeastern Home Economics Province Workshop. The delegates this year were Billie Dean Reed and Geneva Calfee.

For a Bright Future

The INDUSTRIAL ARTS CLUB

"Look at that group of students. Do they look like the future home builders of America? Take that literally, folks, for they're members of the Industrial Arts Club and the majority of them are majors in some field of industrial arts. This club is also an affiliated member of the American Industrial Arts Association. The purpose of this organization is to unite those students with a common interest in the field and give them an opportunity to see educational films and to listen to prominent speakers in the field of industrial arts.

"They, like the other clubs, enjoy their moments of madness and give vent through various types of socials. Highlight of their program this year was the entertainment of some 200 industrial and fine arts teachers with a dinner and open house early in the spring quarter. The snapshot at the top of the page was made at this dinner.

Athletic Recognition is Achieved in the "T" CLUB . . .

"Fifteen rahs for our boys in blue! This is the usual call that is hooted whenever we feast our eyes on the muscular members of the 'T' Club. This organization is honorary, and membership in it is gained only through the earning of a letter in one of the major sports.

"It's one of the oldest clubs on the campus and dates way back yonder to the time when the college was changed from a Normal to a four year institution. For its purpose, it has a two-fold program: to improve the standards of athletics and to entertain its members.

"Is it active? I believe it is. Up to this day it has sponsored minstrels, banquets, and dances to which it invites high school athletes from Tennessee and adjoining states. It did have a 'T' club building, but because the old infirmary burned, the club turned its sanctuary over for use as the infirmary until a new one is built.

"One of the most hilarious events on the campus every year is the 'T' Club initiation. At one of the basketball games, the new initiates are dressed up in girls' bathing suits and made to put on a fashion show for the crowd.

"The officers are: Jim Lofton, president; John Raymond Smith, vice-president; Ralph Osteen, secretary; Charles Smith, treasurer.

. . . The PHYSICAL EDUCATION CLUB

"The Physical Education Club was organized in 1947 for the purpose of providing opportunities for leadership; promoting fellowship among students interested in physical education; helping raise the standards of the department; learning about organizations, publications, and opportunities in physical education; and supporting activities of the college to promote the general welfare of the students. Everyone is invited to membership.

"Activities include regular meetings semi-monthly, a carnival, Christmas party, informal and square dances, and picnics. Fun night, which provides free recreation for all students, is sponsored by the Physical Education Department each Tuesday night.

"Each year the club elects delegates to represent Middle Tennessee State College at Southern and National conventions of the American Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation. This year six students attended the Southern Conference in Atlanta, Georgia. They were: Nancy Hill, Norma Littleton, Emily Pepper, Jim Lincoln, Carlos Lannom, and Lloyd Knowles.

"Yes, folks, this is one of the favorite organizations on the campus, and one that sponsors entertainment for all.

"The members (below) are: First Row: Buleah Davis, sponsor; Bob Searcy, Lillian Swann, Emily Pepper, Emma Jean McElroy, Wayne Nichols, Gloria Gattis, Peggy Ambrester, Norma Littleton, Jane Templeton. Second Row: Geneva Calfee, Bess Evans, Nancy Hill, Avola Whitsell, DeNell Agee, Ruby Avery, Evelyn Goodlee, Martha Sue Williams, Mary Neil Collier, Dwight Ogle.

"Officers of the Physical Education Club are: Wayne Nichols, president; Bobby Jones, vice-president; Gloria Gattis, secretary; Bob McCowan, sergeant-at-arms.

. . . And The

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

"All the females running around here with these well developed muscles are members of the W.A.A., which means Women's Athletic Association. These gals are really fine athletes participating in all activities from hiking, touch football, basketball, volleyball, badminton, down to softball. They take their sports seriously but are good sports; at least, I haven't noticed any bald headed or scratched up females wandering around yet.

"The W.A.A. was organized on our campus to encourage interest in athletic activities, to promote good sportsmanship and a spirit of co-operation and fellowship. It's most important objective is to encourage in student life worthwhile activities and to suppress unwholesome tendencies.

"The girls are divided up into teams usually according to their major. Some play for the Science Club, some for the Physical Education Club, and all other organizations are pretty well represented. Membership is attained by winning one hundred points in intramural activities and upon payment of a fifty-cent fee which is all you have to pay for the whole four years (or five years if you get fouled up on your hours). Any girl interested in athletics is eligible for membership.

"The council or governing board is elected by the members of the club. The president is Mary Jean Hay; vice-president is Mattie Sue Rather; secretary, Nell Banks; treasurer, Ann Ledford; and intramural manager, Dimple Moncrief. The girls couldn't get along without the able assistance of Miss Buleah Davis, faculty adviser.

"In the picture below are the members of the Women's Athletic Association. To Interpret 'One World' . . .

The INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

"Oui! Si! Ja! Yes. All these mean the same as any member of the International Relations Club will tell you, and they are well qualified to speak. They don't study foreign languages, but they do delve into the affairs of foreign nations. They try to enlighten the members on the United States' position in world affairs and to tie all of the gathered morsels of knowledge together into a coherent picture of international relations.

"The members of the club are generally social science majors, but membership is open to all who wish to join. Each meeting brings an educational program as well as the usual business meeting. The club is a member of the International Relations Club of America. In fact, it sends a delegate to the International Relationship Convention held every year, where all the clubs of that type send delegates to meet and discuss their respective organizations. Also, at these meetings there are lectures from known professors who are authorities in the field of International Affairs. The delegates this year were Ann Arnold, Betty Webb, Buford Hines and Mr. Roscoe Strickland.

"If you ever want to know anything about the state of affairs in this or any other country, just drop into one of these club meetings and sit in silence. It is often said that out of the mouths of babes comes wisdom and this old adage well applies to the freshly informed students who are members.

"Second Row: Buford Hines, Floyd Price, Tommy Eskew, Charles Abel, Bobby Parks, Burt Spurlock, Bill Smith, James White, Adrian Todd, Price Bennett, James Lowe.

Thespian Artistry and Talent is Revealed in the

DRAMATIC CLUB

" 'Is this a dagger which I see before me, the handle toward my hand? Come let me clutch thee.' Aha! 'Tis but the product of the rubber tree!' This applies to all of the ultra-realistic properties used by the Buchanan Dramatic Club but thanks anyway to Mr. Shakespeare. See, Mom, I did learn something!

"This is the organization which I told you gave such a dynamic performance each quarter under the direction of Mr. Lane Boutwell. The fall quarter enjoyed the presentation of Harvey, one of the all-time favorites in comedy, and this play also introduced the use of the rolling stage, a new experiment for the club. It was a delightful change from the 'one set' stage, and it also gave the students an idea of the different stage settings as well as providing a variety of scenery.

"The dramatic club really gained courage this winter and undertook the presentation of the Greek classic, Medea. Talk about scared, it's a wonder we survived the emotion which that play welled up in us. Really, I'm still walking past its cast and director with wary eyes. The purpose of presenting this play was two-fold: one, to give the dramatic people an insight into plays done 300 years B.C., when Greece was in its height as a center of culture, and two, to give the students a touch of serious drama, in fact, stark tragedy.

"The primary purpose of the dramatic club is to develop an appreciation and a better understanding of the dramatic art. The philosophy of the club is not just to produce professional plays, but to give each student in the club a chance to have actual experience in acting and the technical work attached to the dramatic art.

"The Officers are: Edell Hearn, president; Jimmy Lyons, vice-president; Lee Henson, secretary; Celia Lyons, treasurer; Avola Whitesell, corresponding secretary.

. . With Hard Work in Each Production

"It's hard for us to realize just how much work these dramatic students put into the production of a play. Besides the hundreds of hours spent by the cast learning their lines, hundreds of hours more are spent to build the sets, particularly when they have to build something like the 'rocks' and columns used in 'Media' (top picture).

"For several days preceding and during one of their plays, students run around the campus with grease and powder in their hair and lipstick and charcoal on their faces, for make-up (second picture) is essential to faithful reproduction of the plays.

"But when the curtain goes up (below) before the hushed audience, there comes the thrill of something accomplished, and all the hard work of the past several months is wrapped up before the footlights for two glorious hours. Then comes the thundering applause, the curtain calls, the flowers—everyone's happy—it was work well spent.

ALPHA PSI OMEGA For Dramatic Excellence

"These histronic looking souls are the chosen few who have earned enough points in the Dramatic Club to be listed among the members of Alpha Psi Omega, the National honorary fraternity for dramatics. The cast here at MTSC has the impressive name of Lambda Gamma but it apparently doesn't weigh its members down, as they hold their purpose to be the stimulation of interest in dramatic activities here on the campus and to secure for the college all of the benefits and advantages of the National organization.

"The club is still relatively new but is progressing rapidly. This year it entered the homecoming parade for the first time and copped the third prize. They are still noted around school for their 'worm'. The Alpha Psi group is building toward the idea of being an advanced group of drama students, doing experimental drama in which the student members can gain some knowledge of producing and directing.

"All this drama and no play can make artists a peculiar lot, so in order to maintain an equilibrium, the students culminate their year's activity with a banquet at which the officers for the following year are chosen.

"The officers are: Jimmy Lyon, Cast Director; Jean Pellegrin, Worthy Playwrite; Dot Leavitt, Business Manager.

SPEECH ARTS SOCIETY

"The primary objective of the Speech Arts Society deals with an analysis and investigative study of international and domestic problems which pose as the issues of the day. Along with this, the society affords an excellent training ground in various phases of public speaking by direct application. The basic emphasis is on debating. However, oratory, impromptu and extemporaneous speaking, after-dinner speaking and interpretative reading are among the different activities in which the members participate.

"Some of the tournaments engaged in during the year are, the Forensic Tournaments throughout the South, as well as the Grand National in Fredericksburg, Virginia.

"This year the Speech Arts participated in the Pre-Season Tournament at the University of the South, the State Tournament at the Belmont College, the Mid-Southern at Agnes Scott College, Georgia, and the Grand National Forensic Tournament at Fredericksburg, Virginia.

"The Society has had its fair share of recognition in these meets. During the last five years, a runner-up in oratory, at the National, a winner in after-dinner, in the State, and a champion in oratory at the Southern, and one of the top twenty teams at the National.

The TRACK and SABRE CLUB Fosters Esprit de Corps . .

"And this is the Track and Sabre Club, composed of members of the ROTC. A new club on the campus, it became official in November, 1951. Its purpose is to further and extend to the public the purpose of the Reserve Officer Training Corps. Among its objectives are the improvement and entertainment of its members. It also strives to create and continue fellowship and understanding among the college students. Each year it sponsors a Military Ball featuring a "name" band, and its members elect an ROTC Queen. This year the ball was held in the Tennessee Room, our new ball room in the Student Union Building.

"One of its most notable works is the sponsorship of the Red Cross blood collection on the campus each spring. Through their efforts last year 177 pints were collected in one day, a record for this county which was broken by them again this year when 204 pints were donated. In the picture at the bottom of the page, 'one-gallon man' Jake Warden and Colonel MacLean are giving blood.

"Cadet Major William Woodfin, Cadet Captain Thomas Sparkman, Cadet Captain Pat McKee, and Cadet Lieutenant Eugene Skelly composed the color guard, which performed at most of our home basketball games.

. . COMRADESHIP . .

"Claudette Reed was selected as Queen of the Military Ball by a vote of the entire Corps. She is shown above receiving flowers from Cadet Major Walter Norris, president of the Track and Sabre Club, immediately after her coronation. Looking on are Lt. Rigler, and Cadet Lt. Col. Shearin. Buddy Morrow and his orchestra played at the dance, held in the Student Union building, February 7.

"Among the many other opportunities offered by the club, members are 'invited' to go on an 'all expense paid, six-weeks summer vacation' to Kentucky. All isn't peaches and cream though, for the entire time is spent at Fort Knox, and according to the boys who have been, it certainly is no vacation. President Q. M. Smith is shown visiting some of the boys who were there last summer (above right).

. . . The BAND

To Encourage Professional Proficiency . . .

FUTURE TEACHERS

"Wow! Look at the membership in this club and you can see why we say that this is primarily a teachers college. Just think, all of these folks will some day be the teachers in our local schools and you can bet they graduate from here fully qualified and ready to enter teaching positions. This organization is a combination of both the elementary and secondary teachers, and is a part of the state and national education associations. The chapter provides an opportunity for every member of the club to establish a professional citizenship which one may continue as long as he is a teacher.

"You say they don't look like school marms or masters? Well, after all, Mom, times have changed! These folks gather here for the purpose of training themselves for educational leadership and acquainting themselves with the history, ethics, and program of the organized teaching profession. This organization also provides practical experience in working together in a democratic way on the problem of the profession.

"During their meetings, the group hears lectures from such people as the TEA field director, Miss Charlene Willis; sees slides provided by Mr. Bandy; listens to the experiences of exchange students from Germany and conducts student panels. All this is in addition to the straight musical and educational material that is the basis of such Chapters.

"Don't worry about your grandchildren folks; they'll be educated by the best!

Spiritual Growth and Fellowship is Attained in the

CHURCH OF CHRIST GROUP

"I hope I haven't misled you, folks, for we do have the serious as well as the gay with us. This school is very proud of its religious groups and services. One of the outstanding groups is the Church of Christ. You can tell by the number of members what kind of spirit they have and that they are truly interested in their work. The president is Ralph Osteen, the vice-president is Jim Crawley, and the secretary and treasurer are combined and the office is held by Nancy Summers.

"This group meets every Wednesday night at six o'clock in room 69 for brief but inspiring lessons. They always have an interesting speaker. I believe Ralph told me that their regular attendance is about 55 people, while they have had 70 present at some meetings. This group has made splendid progress on the campus and is to be highly commended for its work.

"The North Boulevard Church of Christ, located just across the street from the campus, has done much to encourage the growth and support the activities of the organization.

"See, folks, we have our spiritual side, too. In fact, we try to hit that happy combination of intellectual ability, physical health, and spiritual satisfaction. The Methodist Student Movement is an organization of just this type. It is designed to promote Christian fellowship and to create a religious society on the campus among the Methodist students as well as others.

"It endeavors to bring more Christian experiences, worship, and study to the students. Through this means, the members are afforded an opportunity for worship among themselves and with the local churches. It, too, benefits from its connection with the Methodist Student Movement of the State. They say that every life has three parts and you needn't worry about any of them here as you probably are beginning to realize after meeting our scholastic departments, physical organizations, and spiritual groups.

"Third Row: Barbara Francis, Beverly Evans, M. A. Boyce, Shirley Keys, Jane Huskins, Margaret Tucker, Ann Wilkinson, Mary Elizabeth Warren, Bobby Parks, Jimmy Cranford. Fourth Row: Imogene Galleghly, Mary Ann Dickey, Eleanor Sheid, Alec Bond, Julian Fleming, Mary Jean Hay, Mary Niel Collier, Linda Ledford, Nancy Hill, Wallace Smotherman, Norman Hust, Elizabeth Hay.

"Officers of this organization include Euple Gilbert, president; Dimple Moncrief, vice-president; Shirley Sadler, secretary, Louise Gribble, treasurer.

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION

"The Baptist Student Union here on the campus is another ultra-religious organization. They're a bunch of fine kids and their philosophy of life is that life is fine if you meet it halfway. Milas M. Ayers is a congenial, typical Southerner, and he's the Student Secretary—like the sponsor of another club.

"The B.S.U. has provided lots of spiritual enjoyment for its members plus lots of plain ol' good times. This past school year they had a Hobo Party, a nutty Psychological Clinic, and a 'snazzy' banquet early this spring.

"The purpose of the B.S.U. is to form a link between the Baptist students on the campus and the Baptist churches in the college town, and it is affiliated with the Southern Baptist Convention.

"In the following picture we find, from left to right: First Row: William J. Powell, Cliffodean Boyd, Frances Nelson, Greta Moore, Ilene Smith, Marian Penuel, M. M. Ayers, student secretary. Second Row: Joyce Humphreys, Philena Lee, Mary Yager, Jane Gillum, Sue Kirby, Dot Richardson, Margaret Holland. Fourth Row: William Clyde Stephens, Jean White, Marie Smith, Loretta Tanksley, Anna Belle Grove, Mary Jewell Bilbrey, Thomas McPhearson.

"The list of officers include: Sue Kirby, president; Bonnie Harris, first vice-president; Frances Nelson, second vice-president; Greta Moore and Marion Penuel, third vice-presidents; Mary E. Yager, secretary and treasurer.

And the STUDENT CHRISTIAN UNION

"The uniting force could be the definition of this organization, for it acts as just that to the various church denominations which have organizations on the campus. It is the club which serves to make all of us, no matter what faith, one group joined together to worship our one common God. The one thing so nice about it is the fact that it is not only in name, but in actuality. Each day the Student Christian Union sponsors noon day devotions for the students during their lunch hour with the denominations taking turns leading the services. Then too, each Sunday in the auditorium the S.C.U. holds vespers for the complete student body.

The ALUMNI BETA CLUB

Continues Recognition of Secondary School Honors

"Well, Mom and Pop, here is the Alumni Beta Club. This club is organized of students who gained the honor of membership either in the Beta Club or National Honor Society while in High School. A member of this club has the qualities of character, scholastic ability, and good citizenship. The principal purpose of the college organization is to foster projects essential to the maintenance of high scholastic standing and to provide, by way of entertainments and social gatherings, happy associations of former NHS and Beta members with one another.

"In the above picture are the members of the club. They are: First Row: Ophelia Troxler, Beverly Evans, Glenn Lawson, Janet Hooper, Cliffodean Boyd, Mattie Lou Wilson, Ty Cobb, Malcolm Rives. Colorful Pageantry, Music Appreciation, and Individual Development Fostered Through The BAND . . .

"No doubt, folks, you've heard of our very famous band, and here it is. MTSC owes much of her fame and fortune to the band as it does much in the way of publicizing the college when it goes on tour. They gave concerts this year at Lebanon, Gallatin, Manchester, and Tracy City. The eighty-piece marching delegation performed at all home games this year and followed the Raiders to Vanderbilt and Florence State. Those majorettes and flag twirlers are just about the best high-stepping strutters you've ever seen. The band gave us several very fine concerts here on the campus and will climax its splendid season by playing for graduation. The director is Mr. Neil Wright and associate director is Mr. George Kuhnert."

CHORUS . . .

"And here is another very important organization that brings good will and lots of students to our campus—the chorus. This group performs primarily the best works in a capella literature. Its purposes are to make improvements in vocal work and provide musical benefit to the college, community, and Middle Tennessee. The ninety members of this group gave us a fine winter concert, a spring concert, many excellent chapel programs, and complete their successes by singing for Baccalaureate. It has made trips during the past season to several high schools such as Shelbyville, Fayetteville, Columbia, Lawrenceburg, and Nashville West High, Hillsboro, and East High. The chorus is under the very capable direction of Neil Wright.

"By the way, those three talented songbirds at the top of the page make up the Women's Trio. With Eleanor Sheid as soprano, Gay Jennings as contralto, and Carolyn Nicholson as mezzo-soprano, their voices blend together to make some mighty fine listening.

"Oh, I say there, I'll bet you didn't know that we go strictly high-brow sometimes, too. Well, if you didn't it's high time you learned. This is the Middle Tennessee State College Orchestra. We put on our best bib and tucker, leave in our battered limousine, and reach the music hall just before the curtain goes up. We are handed a program which informs us of the splendid selections we are about to hear. We take our seats, and the curtain goes up. There before us, also in their Sunday best, are our fellow students about to give us their symphonic best. They play with all the style and grace of Carnegie Hall's finest. When the evening is over, we return to our dormitories feeling much more cultured and refined. Mrs. Rubye Taylor Sanders, the concert mistress, has done a splendid job.

"Well . . . if I did exaggerate just a little bit, we are still proud of the classical contribution of this group—they certainly are good.

"Members of the orchestra are: First Violins: Miss Rubye Taylor Sanders, Concert Mistress; Thomas Darnell, Ray Tanksley, Burt McFerrin. Second Violins: Eleanor Shied, Adelaide Pluger, Mary Frances Smotherman. Viola: Terrance McClarney. Violoncellos: Carolyn Nicholson, Gloria Gattis, Greta Moore, Clyde Cromwell, Janet Hooper, Double Basses: Norvel Branham, Thomas Eskew, Charles Higgins. Flutes: Elizabeth Nicholson, Martha Ricks. Oboes: Betty Moore, Gay Jennings.

"Clarinets: Gerrie Amick, Jerry Phillips. Bassoons: Robert Martin. Trumpets: Samuel McMurray, Franklin Chambers. Horns: Charles Anderson, George Pidcock. Trombone: Norma Littleton. Timpani: Douglass Williams. Percussion: Neal Blair. Piano: Jimmie Lou Copeland.

PI MU SIGMA . . .

"The Pi Mu Sigma is the honorary music organization for music majors on the campus. It's a highly selected group, too. Only those who have first chair in the band or orchestra or those who are doing advanced recital work are eligible. They then become members by invitation and election. And, of course, it is limited just to music majors.

"This group has some good purposes behind it . . . to promote a high moral level among professional musicians in order to maintain and augment the dignity of the music profession; to promote a high degree of effiicency in musicianship among the members and, as a secondary effect, among all the music students; to create an influence for better musicianship that will attract the better music students to our school; and finally to create better understanding and social contact among the members. Whew! I didn't think I could remember all that, but it certainly is worth remembering, don't you think? We're very proud to have such a group on our campus.

"The officers are: Gloria Gattis, president; Carolyn Nicholson, vice-president; Greta Moore, secretary; Eleanor Sheid, treasurer.

String Ensemble

"Now we come to the String Ensemble. As the name indicates, it is made up strictly of string instruments—violins, violincellos, double bass, and others. These students are the best string players in the regular orchestra. They are (left to right): Thomas Darnell, Burton McFerrin, Ray Tanksley, Carolyn Nicholson, Jimmie Lou Copeland, Gay Jennings, Torrance McClarney, Frances Smotherman, and Eleanor Shied.

Saunderian Society

"This Group is the Saunderian Society. We are truly indebted to Miss E. May Saunders, after whom the organization is named, for organizing these people who are interested in classical music. They are (first row): Frances Nelson, Elizabeth Ann Nicholson, Greta Moore, Betty Moore, Sur Kirby, and Jimmy Lou Copeland at the piano. (Second row): Maudanna Wilson, Marion Penuel, Illene Smith, Jean Jernigan, Carolyn Shelton, Natalie Stewart, Aaron Powers, Betty Fox, Laura Ann Harris, Ray Tanksley, Thomas Darnell, Jerry Phillips, Torrence McClarney, Clyde Cromwell, Doug McDonald, Douglass Williams, and Charles Lane.

Harp Singers

"These are the Sacred Harp Singers, who sing a capella, seated around a table in the style of the Elizabethan period. This group travels extensively throughout the state giving concerts and have given us some very interesting programs here. Seated around the table are: Charles Anderson, Douglass Williams, George Pidcock, Torrance McClarney, Sue Kirby, Mrs. Neil Wright, Carolyn Nicholson, Gay Jennings, Eleanor Shied, Thomas Darnell, Wayne Robinson, and Ray Tanksley.

And The STUDENT ORGAN GUILD

"I guess you saw the very fine organ we have in the auditorium. Well, you know we need some people to play it, and we have them too. They banded together and formed what is presently known as the Student Organ Guild. It is made up of all the students who are taking private organ instruction or who are interested in playing the organ. Virginia Woodfin is president of the group. The MTSC Student Guild group was one of the first of its type to receive a charter from the American Guild. I hope you can stick around long enough to hear some of them play. You can hear the organ music, and especially the chimes, all over the campus when it is being played.

"Those pictured here are: Carolyn Nicholson, Virginia Love Woodfin, Mrs. Margaret Wright, sponsor; Gloria Gattis, Mary Dillon Scott, Adeliade Pluger, Sue Kirby, Torrance McClarney, Carolyn Ann Shelton.

Agrarian Problems are Studied by the AGRICULTURE CLUB

" 'You can always keep us happy down on the farm.' These Ag Club boys seem to have adopted this as their anthem. They believe in it strongly enough. President, Ralph Osteen; 'veep,' Maybrum Smith; and secretary and treasurer, Rousseau Browder lead this splendid group of twenty members. I believe the club was founded in 1927, so you can see it is one of the very oldest.

"The Agriculture Club meets every second Monday of every month at seven o'clock. They have many varied programs with movies ranking high on the list of best liked and most educational. The club has a social every quarter.

"The objectives of the Ag Club are to promote agricultural education, practical demonstrations in farming, and to cooperate with and actually operate the college farm. Believe me, these are very challenging statements but you can certainly bet the boys are carrying them out to the letter They are doing a splendid job. Boy, I don't have any doubts about this country ever starving with these boys around. The horn of plenty will be running over.

Plotting the Course

'Let's Go For A Ride'

The AVIATION CLUB Furthers Aeronautical Experience

" 'Anybody want to fly down to Florence next Saturday for the football game?' or, 'Hey Bill, let's fly up to see the Raiders play Murray next weekend.' That's the way the conversation usually runs when members of the Aviation Club meet every Monday night at the College Airport, for it is through the club that the aviation students do most of their 'extra-curricula' flying.

"The overnight trip to Florence, Alabama, was probably the largest flight made during the year. The student pilots plotted the course to be flown and figured the time, gas consumption, wind direction and velocity, and other data. Not only do the club members enjoy the fun and fellowship that goes along with a trip such as this, but they get valuable experience in cross-country flying, landing at strange airports, reading maps, following radio beams, and exercising judgment, all under the supervision of experienced instructors.

"The club cooperates closely with the Tennessee Wing of the Civil Air Patrol and has participated in many of the maneuvers held by that group throughout the state.

"All the 'flying' members of the club are also members of the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association, a nation-wide organization that furthers the aviation industry and helps the individual pilot in numerous ways. Through the AOPA, Aviation Club members are kept informed on the latest developments in the field, such as government regulations, new safety practices, new planes being built, and maintenance tips.

The 1952 FOOTBALL Season - - Tops!

"For the third consecutive year, the Blue Raiders are champions of the VSAC. The talented 1951 Raiders roared through the season with a record of seven wins, two losses, and two ties, playing a tough schedule. Head Coach Charles Murphy and his assistants put together an aggregation that tripled their opponents' total score, 318 to 106 points. They gained a total of 3,284 yards compared to the opponents' net gain of 1,390 yards. They out-passed, out-ran, and out-kicked their opposition throughout the season.

"In their season's opener the Raiders defeated Carson Newman 38 to 0 to record the first win of the year.

"The following week the Raiders journeyed to Nashville to meet Vanderbilt. The Commodores, a heavy favorite, ran into a spirited team from Murfreesboro and had to go all out to defeat the Raiders 22 to 7. Although the Raiders were on the short end of the score, they brought home a moral victory. A pass from John Raymond Smith to Mitchell Jones marked the first time a Vanderbilt team had been scored upon by a MTSC team. Bill Fandrich kicked the extra point. Billy Derrick was a standout on offense for the Raiders.

"Hungry to get back in the win column, the Raiders met the Sewart Air Base on Jones Field and did just that by a score of 46 to 6.

"A hapless and out-manned Union team was the next victim of the Raiders as they racked up their first Conference win. It entered the records as a 60–0 contest.

"Murphy's charges traveled to Clarksville for their second conference tilt and came home with a 27 to 6 win tucked under their belt.

"The Raiders pass defense was given a real test at Morehead. The OVC team threw pass after pass but the Raider running attack could not be stopped and it was another victory for the Blue and White. This time by a 33 to 13 count.

"Emory and Henry, one of the best of the small college football teams, invaded Jones Field the next Saturday. After the smoke had cleared from the battlefield the scoreboard read a 20–20 tie. The Wasps brought to town a wicked spread formation but the Raiders equalled it with a hard running and an accurate passing attack. It was a hard-fought contest from the beginning and one the spectators will remember many seasons.

"With fine quarterbacking from John Raymond Smith and hard running from Bobby Young, the Raiders downed a determined Florence State team 21 to 0.

SENIORS

First Row: Bob Searcy, Billy Fandrich, Bobby Hardison, Billy Derrick, Jimmy Hite. Second Row: David Burnett, Harold Hitt, Don Stotser, Ben Canada, Charlie Lyons.

"A tiring squad, riddled by injuries, rode to Murray looking for their fifth victory but found its second and last defeat of the season. A strong thoroughbred team came from behind to win in the second half by a 19 to 7 margin.

"The Raiders came back to life the next week and ran roughshod over East Tennessee State with a display of offensive power and thereby became VSAC champions with a 45 to 0 victory.

"On Thanksgiving Day, the Raiders met their traditional rivals, Tennessee Tech, on Jones Field. Hard running and hard tackling featured the game that saw the Raiders score a touchdown on Bobby Hardison's recovery of a fumble in the end zone late in the last quarter. Kenneth Duke rose from the bench and kicked the extra point to tie the game. The contest ended minutes later and therecords now read MTSC 14, TPI 14.

"Hard charging Bobby Young copped scoring honors in the VSAC by scoring 13 touchdowns for 78 big points. Six Raiders were placed on the first team all-conference with five others gaining second team honors.

WE HAD A GOOD BASKETBALL SEASON TOO!

"Coach Charles Greer's basketball squad had a most successful season, winning 18 games while losing 12.

"The team participated in both the VSAC and NAIB regional tournaments, placing fourth in each.

"Harry Gupton was placed on the All-VSAC team picked by the Nashville Banner for the fourth consecutive year. He was high scorer for the season exclusive of tournament play, with 308 points. Kenneth Trickey and Sam Smith, freshman members of the squad, made honorable mention on the All-Conference. In the tournament at Johnson City, Ben Canada was chosen for a forward position on the all-tournament team. In that tournament Ray Cox almost tied the conference record when he scored 33 points in a single game. His total for the season including tournament games was 351 points.

Raiders Take BASEBALL Crown Fourth Straight Year

"Middle Tennessee State topped many tough opponents to win, for the fourth consecutive year, the Volunteer State Athletic Conference baseball championship in 1951.

"The team was sparked by many individual stars. Harry Gupton led the team in hitting with a phenomal .422 average and was credited with 43 stolen bases for the season.

"John Brock and Bob Veach teamed up in early season to pitch the rarest game in baseball—a no-hit, no-run contest against Murray State of Kentucky. Jim Ballard paced the pitchers with a six and one record. Captain Howard Gamble had a two and none record. Brock hurled five victories while losing one game.

"The Raiders won 15 of 17 games, scoring 202 runs to their opponents 82.

"The schedule was as follows:

WRESTLING is an 'up and coming' Sport at MTSC

"Although winning only two matches while losing nine, the wrestling team under the direction of Coach Joe Black Hayes showed great talent and ability on the mats during the 1951 season. The 'aces' of the squad were Lem Vaughn, Bobby Osteen, and G. P. Long. This trio made a great showing against their more experienced opposition all year. Together they scored 72 team points, giving up only 34. They won 20 individual contests against seasoned veterans of the 'grunt and groan' sport.

"At the close of the season, Coach Hayes and a team of five Raider matmen traveled to Emory College in Georgia to enter the Southern Wrestling tournament. They made an excellent showing and placed fourth, only one point behind the third place team.

"Wrestling is rapidly taking its place on the sporting calendar at MTSC and Coach Hayes expects to mold a championship team before the next season unfolds. The Southeastern tournament is scheduled for MTSC next year.

GOLF And TENNIS Have A Place At M T S C, Too!

"Spring sports at MTSC feature a wide range of opportunity for individual and team competition, much of which is on an intramural basis.

"In addition to baseball, tennis and golf offering varsity competition and a limited track and field program is carried on.

"In 1951 the Raider tennis team played seven matches. Perhaps the best played match was against David Lipscomb in which Bill Clark, Leland Blackwood and Bill Hatcher won singles matches and Hatcher and Blackwood teamed up to win a doubles match. Captain Bill Clark went to the quarter finals in the VSAC tournament at Johnson City.

"The golf team, under leadership of Captain John Raymond Smith, placed fourth in the TIAA tournament at Sewanee and were undefeated in VSAC play. However the VSAC tournament was called off and no champion picked. This year Elbert Patty, who coached the 1949 VSAC champions, has returned and with some good new material a fine seven match and two tournament schedule has been arranged. Team members were Howard Payne, John Raymond Smith, Powell Hawkins, Bob Dyer and Coach Francis Riel.

"Ranging from bait casting to track and field sports the spring quarter is filled with opportunities for intramural recreation. The hole-in-one golf tournament, the overnight camping trips by the physical education department, the softball tournament, the intra-class track meet and the glorious opportunities for swimming, picnicking and fishing in this area give ample training in a program designed for the adult recreational life of both men and women.

INTRAMURALS Provide For Co-Ed Competition

"The girls have a very active Intramural Program. They play touch football in the fall, volleyball and basketball in the winter, and badminton and softball in the spring.

"Freshman girls usually join the team of their major. The teams participating in the different tournaments this year were: Business, Education, Physical Education, Home Economics and Science.

"The girls intramural program is conducted by the Women's Athletic Association, which is an active club on the campus.

BOYS' INTRAMURALS

"Coach Joe Black Hayes introduced a new organization to the campus this year. Known as the Intramural Sports Association, its object is to govern and promote intramural sports for men.

"It consists of eight teams and all students enrolled are placed on one of these teams. Each team has a captain, who is automatically a member of the Intramural Board. It is their duty, along with Coach Hayes, to decide on all issues not covered in the rules.

"About 20 sports are played by each team and points are scored according to the number of players on the winning team. At the end of the year the team with the most points is declared champion. To encourage the students to participate in the games, many trophies and awards are given to the teams and individuals that are declared champions of any sports.

"Above left are two boys playing in the Ping Pong tournament. The Intramural Board is pictured below right. In front is Coach Hayes, the director. In the first row are Pete Haynes, Jack Jolly, and John Brock. In the second row are John Raymond Smith, Bobby Jones, and Carl Prentice.

"Our sports program has been expanded this year to include intercollegiate rifle matches for both boys and girls. Miss Mason's 99 topped both the men and women's early season firing—but there are many who can handle a squirrel rifle or qualify as expert marksmen at MTSC.

""Members of the girls' rifle team are (left to right, first row): Mary Neil Collier, Jean Mason, Nancy J. McMahan, Nancy Hill, Jane Holland, and Joyce Calfee. (Second row): Linda Ledford, Martha Ricks, Jane Jennings, Dot Cude, Faye Barnes, and Mary Killeen. (Third row): Dot Jones, Carolyn Ledford, Betty Davis, Helen Warren, and Barbara Witham.

Grammer, Edward Fletcher, Hutton Brandon, James Hightower, Malcolm Rives, E. C. Hamlett, Herbert Winstead, and Joe McElroy.

Royalty Reigns at HOMECOMING

"The beauties outnumber the beasts at our fair institution and here is the cream of the crop. Each year we choose our Homecoming Queen and her court and the event is an affair well worth witnessing. Feast your eyes on the fair females as I identify them for you. Reading left to right they are: Mary Jean Hay, junior attendant; Dean Hopkins, sophomore; Linda Ledford, the Queen in person; Rubye Averett, senior; and Mary Fandrich, sophomore.

"No, the boys aren't queens, Mother, they're only the escorts. The one at the left is Bob Ogg and the other end is flanked by Don Justice.

Enthusiasm of CHEERLEADERS Never Dies

"The girls below look like queens, too, but actually they are the cheerleaders, whose duty it was to 'inspire our gallant knights on the field of battle to greater glory for dear old State.' Besides performing at home games, these girls followed the football and basketball teams on nearly every trip they made. Left to right are: Janine Wood, Jane Holland, Mary Sue Williams, DeNelle Agee, Pat Lanius, Peggy Faulkner, Pat Trigg, and Jo Ann Buntly.

"Yours truly, Beetle, didn't quite make this elite group but I'm mighty proud of my comrades who did. WHO'S WHO IN AMERICAN COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES, just in case you didn't know, is composed of students from all over the country who gained recognition through their scholarship, cooperation, and leadership in academic and extra-curricular activities, citizenship, and service to the school and their promise of future usefulness. Nominations are submitted annually by four-year institutions and the selection of nominees is conducted by campus committees and involves student-faculty-administration participation.

"This is really an honor and this year eighteen of our students received the honor and recognition. Believe me the rest of us hand them an imported bouquet of the finest orchids.

Recognition Comes To Those of Merit and Proficiency Through . . .

. . . F T A CERTIFICATES OF MERIT . . .

"These future teachers are really the ambitious and ardent workers. The National Education Association awarded each of the eight students pictured above a Certificate of Merit signifying outstanding contributions of service to the MTSC FTA chapter. The requirements for this award are as follows: the student must be a senior and the presentation is made upon graduation; the student must have contributed a minimum of 200 hours of work in the club, averaging 50 hours per year; and he must attend professional meetings to broaden his knowledge of the teaching profession. The last requirement is to live up to the pledge that each member of the future teachers is required to take.

"If you haven't heard the pledge, suppose I read it to you.

THE FUTURE TEACHERS PLEDGE

The good teacher requires:

PHYSICAL VITALITY: I will try to keep my body well and strong.

MENTAL VIGOR: I will study daily to keep my mind active and alert.

MORAL DISCRIMINATION: I will seek to know the right and to live by it.

WHOLESOME PERSONALITY: I will cultivate in myself good will, friendliness, poise, upright bearing, and careful speech.

HELPFULNESS: I will learn the art of helping others by doing helpful things daily in school and home.

KNOWLEDGE: I will fill my mind with worthy thoughts by observing the beautiful world around me, by reading the best books, and by association with the best companions.

LEADERSHIP: I will make my influence count on the side of right, avoiding habits that weaken and destroy.

These things will I do now that I may be worthy the high office of teacher.

The N. E. A. Certificate of Merit winners are: Jack Gross, Owen Roberts, Walter Chapman, Nancy Jane McMahan, Emalou Smotherman, Jerolyn Cashion, Edell Hearn, Johnny Haskew.

The

AMERICAN FARMER

Degree Award

"The American Farmer Degree this year was presented to Harold Daniels, one of the most outstanding students on the MTSC campus. It is an award presented by the national officers of the Future Farmers of America. During his stay here at the old 'homestead,' Harold has participated in numerous and varied activities. He is the present president of the Student Body and serves as executive of the ASB. He has been most outstanding in his agricultural pursuits.

"The award was made October 8, in Kansas City, Missouri.

and appointment of CADET DELEGATES

"Cadet Lt. Col. George Shearin of Shelbyville, and Cadet Master Sergeant Donald Stotser of Lawrenceburg, were selected this spring to represent Middle Tennessee State College at the United States Military Academy, May 1–4 as a part of the West Point sesquicentennial observance. These two cadets were named because of their outstanding work with the Corps here.

"They attended West Point along with 110 other ROTC cadets from all over the country. They formed an integrate part of the Corps of Cadets while there and were subject to the usual rules and regulations of the Academy.

TOP I. A. STUDENTS Attend Convention

"There are many national and regional conventions attended by students from MTSC. The largest group to be represented this year was the Industrial Arts Club which sent this big delegation to American Industrial Arts Association convention in Chicago. Cecil Cantrell, president of our club, was on the program at the meeting.

"In the picture at right Billy Pressnell, George Leavitt, Bobby Thompson, Cecil Cantrell, Chester Eaton, Bobby Carrigan, Loxie Dowd, Bob Cotter, Mr. O. L. Freeman, Joe Snow, Woodrow Bond, and J. T. Chumney are lined up on the front row, almost obscuring Erwin Manning, Thomas Eskew, Norvell Branham, Wallace Smotherman and James Dunn in the rear, as the boys prepare to leave for Chicago.

AAUP CHAPTER

Honors Top Seniors

"Our photographer failed to show up to immortalize the fourteen top members of the senior class in scholastic attainment—but you can turn to the senior section of the MIDLANDER and look them over.

"The MTSC chapter of AAUP, of which Dr. Richard Peck is president, has initiated an annual dinner to honor the five per cent of each senior class who rate the highest grades for a four year period.

"Those honored this year include Beatrice Smith Adcock, Cliffodean Boyd, Annie Campbell, Thomas Eugene Cox, Capt. Neil Ellis, Boyd Gilliland, Mary Jean Hay, Cecila Blevins Lyons, Louise Mason, Carolyn Nicholson, Lorene Sauls, Mae Bailey Thompson, Avola Whitesell, and Ethel Kimbrough Williams.

"AMERICAN COLLEGE STUDENT LEADERS" Honors, Too

"Another group of students, whose honors reached us too late for picture making, are the nineteen who will be included in the 1952 edition of 'American College Leaders.'

"Selected by arbitrary standards based on their achievement in elective and appointive offices this group includes: Harold Daniels, Cliffodean Boyd, Avola Whitesell, Barbara Dale, Edell Hearn, Ralph Osteen, Norvel Branham, Tommy Bomar, Charlie Lyons, Jane Holland, Helen Warren, Gloria Gattis, Staten Eubanks, Ty Cobb, Buford Hines, Stanley Sissom, and Nowlin Taylor.

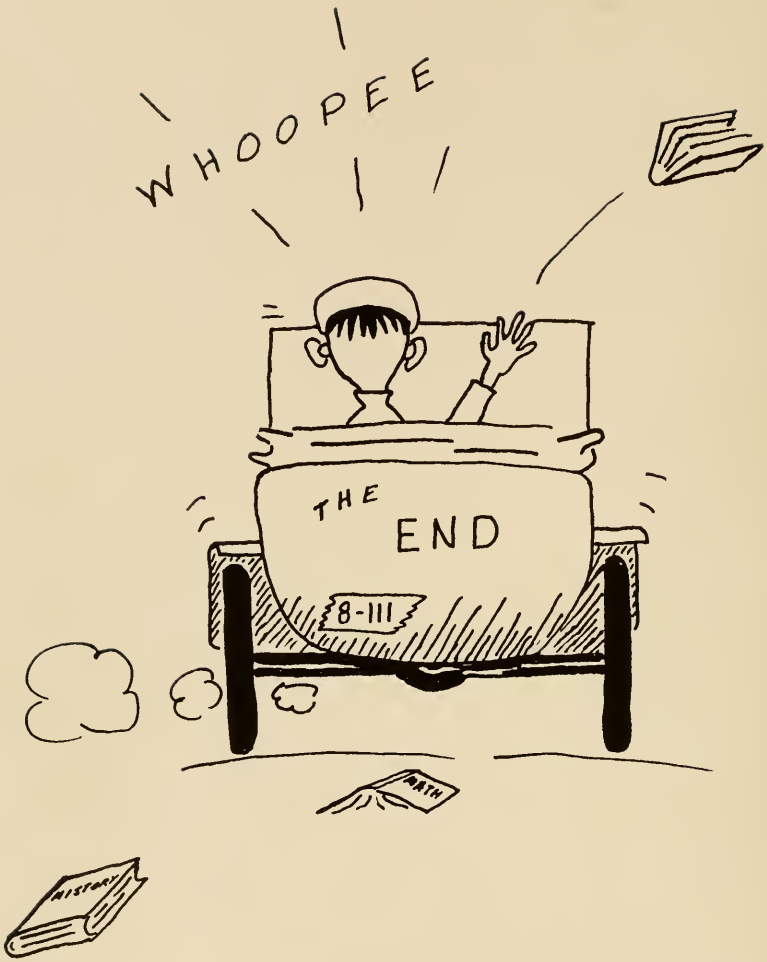
THANK

OUR ADVERTISERS

REMEMBER THEM WHEN BUYING



So, as the sun sinks slowly in the west behind the blue Tennessee hills, we bid farewell to "Beetle." We see him sadly saying good-bye to all his friends and the institution he has known so long and loved so well, and nostalgic tears swell in our eyes as we finally realize the time has come to say, "So long, good luck!"
